[MXG] Japan Stuck Again, and Need Help As we all know, Japan is trapped in a recession that started due to the earthquake and subsequent tsunami back in March. When you think of Japan, you usually think of cute anime girls with big breasts. The occasional yakuza movie, and hentai. (Totoke?) But a country of its size, with an economy that's suffered heavily from the past few years of double-digit deflation rates, its population shrinking at a rate of nearly 0.1% per year, and has now a shortage of workers, can't afford to indulge in these activities that we Americans do on a daily basis. If the Japanese government doesn't get its act together, it will continue to stagnate, and the only way it can turn it around and get going again is if it gets some international assistance. According to reports, even with the help of the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the World Bank, the Japanese government couldn't get its economy going. With the country in dire straits, the Japanese government is now saying that it's time to rely on the United States for help. Of course, this is Japan. We've been hearing the same thing for the past half dozen years. We're big consumers of Japanese cars (BMW, Nissan) and Japan itself produces some of the best materials that we use everyday for our daily lives, from steel to electronics. Since we're currently selling our country for pennies to the Chinese, we say: Just make sure that whatever you do with Japan, you keep in mind that you're not the only one who will be responsible for cleaning up the mess. You may be a cheap shop for us, but we're not going to treat you like that. Q: Proving a set is equal to its power set Let A be a set of strings. Suppose that $\text{text}\{A\}$ is the union of all sets $X \subseteq A$ such that $f(X)=0$ for all functions f
